

Panel 2

Climate Change Negotiation: Debriefing of Copenhagen COP-15

“We must move the world from an era of talk to an era of change,” says Connie Hedegaard, Danish Minister for Climate and Energy. In December 2009, Denmark is hosting the Conference of the Parties – COP15. The goal is to find the answer to the global challenge. There is a need to make ambitious agreement that brings together all nations so that we all take responsibility for what is happening to Mother Earth and strive towards a better future. This panel has been designed in order to share with you the negotiations that are to be made at the Copenhagen meeting. There will new decisions, agreements, discussions, loopholes, problems, etc. We wish to share these with you in the presence of representatives from Climate Change Network.

Panel Organizer: Mr. Shakeel Ramay (Research Associate, SDPI, Islamabad)
